

Stefan is a complete professional. From my initial contact with him he realised that he would not be able to help find some of my ancestors but immediately put me in contact with someone else who could help.

My ancestors were labourers, shepherds and soldiers and moved around a lot, making them very difficult to find. Stefan told me all the places he looked for but could not find my ancestors as well as where he did find them. He also passed on details of all the "maybe" related people as well as the ones that he could establish for sure were related. It is great to have this information and I really appreciated his taking the time to pass it on. Stefan sent regular detailed updates with all sources noted clearly.

While the dead ends in my research came earlier than I would have liked, this was definitely not because of any failing on Stefan's part. He saw every clue and followed up on every possibility and always checked with me about what he should investigate further, so that my costs did not escalate.

I have absolutely no hesitation in recommending Stefan to anyone needing help with genealogical research. I am very happy to have found him.
